Ed Bee, PhD, CEcD, is President and founder of Taimerica Management Company. Taimerica, headquartered in Mandeville, Louisiana, counsels development groups and businesses worldwide on issues of strategic planning, corporate site selection, energy economics and incentive development. The company has clients in over 22 of the United States, Puerto Rico and Central America. Ed is an adjunct professor in the MBA and Economic Development Master’s programs at University of Southern Mississippi, as well as Dean of the Louisiana Economic Development Training Program.

Prior to founding Taimerica, Bee led regional and local economic development groups in New Orleans, Oklahoma City, Corpus Christi, Harlingen, TX, and Darien, GA. Ed completed the PhD in Economic Development at the University of Southern Mississippi. He is an active member of LIDEA, IEDC, American Economic Association, and International Association of Energy Economists.