

Course Title:

Seminar: War, Peace, and Media

Course Number:

COMM 6970-222

Course Description:

The purpose of this course is to familiarize students with the many facets of political communication. As Hollihan (2008) states “politics is communication”. Through class lectures, discussions, and presentations, we will investigate the current status of political campaigns and public governance. We will also analyze politics and media coverage of politics during times of conflict and peace. Political communication focuses on the rhetoric of politicians and other public figures, and the mass media’s coverage of those messages. The course is segmented in the following way: (a) communication surrounding political campaigns; (b) Presidential rhetoric; (c) challenges facing political communication and American democracy; (d) politics and terrorism; and (e) media and war and peace.

Class Dates, Location and Hours:

Dates: September 12-17, 2017

Location: Stuttgart, Germany. See site director for classroom location.

Hours: Tuesday - Friday 6:00-9:30 pm; Saturday and Sunday 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Last day to enroll or drop without penalty: August 14, 2017

Course Objectives:

Course objectives include:

1. Appreciate the role of communication as a way of doing politics,
2. Identify and analyze presidential speeches,
3. Become a critical consumer of political and mass mediated messages,
4. Recognize the constant negotiation of power and its impact on political/mass media rhetoric.

Course Outline:

The course will consist of lectures and discussion of texts and other materials provided by the professor. Additionally, case study analyses will be conducted during the class. Major topics to be addressed include:

- Campaigning
- Political socialization
- Role of the news media
- Political advertising
- Role of social media and other communication technologies
- Presidential rhetoric and conflict
- Media coverage of war and peace
- Challenges

Assignments, Grading and Due Dates:

Have all readings completed prior to the first day of class. Prior to the seminar, each student should prepare one case study of political communication. There will also be one exam for the course. Class participation will also be graded. There are a total of 100 points for the class. Further explanation and point allocation of each assignment is as follows:

Political communication case study (20 points)

Drawing on material from class readings and current events, students should examine one aspect of political communication as it relates to issues of war and peace and apply concepts and arguments from the texts to the analysis. The case study should be written in 4-6 pages, typed, double spaced, Times New Roman 12 font, 1-inch margins, and APA style. The emphasis of the case study should be upon personal experiences, current political communication issues, political approaches and media coverage of issues of conflict or peace. Students should select some aspect of political communication related to conflict and analyze it using our texts and other readings. The case study should be an in-depth exploration and critical investigation of the political communication issue based on insights gained through readings rather than a review or summary of the readings. I do not want to tell you what to write about—only that it should be related to political communication, war and media and should be well written and well thought out, and provide a high level of critical analysis. The case study is due at the beginning of the first night of class and should be turned in by hand rather than electronically.

Class participation (20 points)

During our week we will be spending roughly 30 hours together. I expect all students to participate fully during that time. These classes work best when there is a free exchange of ideas and a robust discussion.

Please moderate your participation so that you are neither dominating the discussion nor non-interactive. Students should also be respectful to all members of the class. One recommendation I have that might help with your participation is to begin paying more attention to articles (newspapers, television, internet sources) that relate to issues of war and peace. Print off or cut out the article—consider how it relates to course content—bring it to class—and then share it with the class. There will be times indicated on the course schedule where an article or essay question can be useful in prompting discussion.

Final exam (60 points)

On Sunday there will be an essay exam designed to assess your recall and understanding of concepts discussed in the course. Although this is subject to change, students will likely be given five essay questions from which they will select three to answer. Questions will come from readings, lectures, and discussions.

Grading:

This is a letter-graded course: A, B, C, D, or F.

Assignment	Due Date	Points
Political Communication Case Study	First class session	20 points
Class Participation	During class sessions	20 points
Final Exam	Last class session	60 points

Notice: Failure to meet assignment due dates could result in a grade of I (Incomplete) and may adversely impact Tuition Assistance and/or Financial Aid.

POLICIES AND NOTICES

Attendance/Grade Policy

Attendance and participation in interaction, individual assignments, group exercises, simulations, role playing, etc. are valuable aspects of any course because much of the learning comes from discussions in class with other students. It is expected that you attend all classes and be on time except for excused emergencies.

Excused absences are given for professor mandated activities or legally required activities such as emergencies or military assignments. It is the policy of the University to excuse absences of students that result from religious observances and to provide without penalty for the rescheduling of examinations and additional required class work that may fall on religious holidays. Unavoidable personal emergencies, including (but not limited to) serious illness; delays in getting to class because of accidents, etc.; deaths and funerals, and hazardous road conditions will be excused.

If you are obtaining financial assistance (TA, STAP, FA, VA, Scholarship, etc.) to pay all or part of your tuition cost, you must follow your funding agency/institution's policy regarding "I" (Incomplete) grades unless the timeline is longer than what the University policy allows then you must adhere to the University policy. Students who receive Financial Aid must resolve/complete any "I" (Incomplete) grades by the end of the term or he/she may be placed on "financial aid probation." If the "I" grade is not resolved/completed by the end of the following term, the student's Financial Aid may be suspended making the student ineligible for further Financial Aid.

Students are responsible for meeting the guidelines of Tuition Assistance and Veterans Assistance. See the education counselor at your local education center for a complete description of your TA or VA requirements.

Academic Integrity and Student Conduct

Academic integrity means honesty and responsibility in scholarship. Academic assignments exist to help students learn; grades exist to show how fully this goal is attained. Therefore all work and all grades should result from the student's own understanding and effort.

Academic misconduct is any act which improperly affects the evaluation of a student's academic performance or achievement. Misconduct occurs when the student either knows or reasonably should know that the act constitutes misconduct. Academic misconduct includes: cheating and using unauthorized materials on examinations and other assignments; improper collaboration, submitting the same assignment for different classes (self-plagiarism); fabrication, forgery, alteration of documents, lying, etc...in order to obtain an academic advantage; assisting others in academic misconduct; attempting to commit academic misconduct; destruction of property, hacking, etc...; intimidation and interference with integrity process; and plagiarism. All students should review the Student's Guide to Academic Integrity at http://integrity.ou.edu/students\_guide.html

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. All students should review policies regarding student conduct at <http://studentconduct.ou.edu/>

Accommodation Statement

The University of Oklahoma is committed to making its activities as accessible as possible. For accommodations on the basis of disability, please contact your local OU Site Director.

Adjustment for Pregnancy/Childbirth-Related Issues

Should you need modifications or adjustments to your course requirements because of documented pregnancy-related or childbirth-related issues, please contact me as soon as possible to discuss. Generally, modifications will be made where medically necessary and similar in scope to accommodations based on temporary disability. Please see <http://www.ou.edu/content/eoo/faqs/pregnancy-faqs.html>.

Title IX Resources

For any concerns regarding gender-based discrimination, sexual harassment, sexual misconduct, stalking, or intimate partner violence, the University offers a variety of resources, including advocates on-call 24/7, counseling services, mutual no-contact orders, scheduling adjustments, and disciplinary sanctions against the perpetrator. Please contact the Sexual Misconduct Office at smo@ou.edu or (405) 325-2215 (8-5), or the Sexual Assault Response Team at (405) 615 -0013 (24/7) to report an incident. To learn more about Title IX, please visit the Institutional Equity Office's website at <http://www.ou.edu/content/eoo.html>

Course Policies

Advanced Programs policy is to order books in paperback if available. Courses, dates, and professors are subject to change. Please check with your OU Site Director. Students should retain a copy of any assignments that are mailed to the professor for the course. Advanced Programs does not provide duplicating services or office supplies.

Any and all course materials, syllabus, lessons, lectures, etc. are the property of professor teaching the course and the Board of Regents of the University of Oklahoma and are protected under applicable copyright.
