COMM 6423-101-21: Communication in Health Organizations

Note: The information on the site location and hours below is for informational purposes only. Out of an abundance of caution, this course will be held online using platforms and methods based on the professor’s choice. Please contact your professor for more information on actual meeting times. This course will count as face-to-face for students who complete the required assignments and modules.

Course Description:
This course examines topics at the intersections of health communication and organizational communication. We will conduct in-depth examinations of exciting topics such as communication in emergency medicine, health activism, and risk and crisis communication. For each topic, our explorations will take us to foundational works as well as more recent and promising work. The course is designed to benefit students with interests in communication careers, health professions, and/or research.

Assignments, Grading, and Due Dates:

Article critiques:
This is a 1-2-page single-spaced critique of one of the assigned readings on a topic (e.g., healthcare teams). Your critiques will be due on the day we will be covering the article in class. You are required to complete five article critiques for the class. Your critiques can cover any of the following: main points or arguments, primary contributions, communication theories or models, research questions or hypotheses, methodology, main findings, article strengths, article weaknesses, etc.

Five-page research report on one of the topics covered in class:
This course considers a variety of topics. For this assignment, you will be expected to write a five-page (double-spaced) report that requires you to delve into any one of these topics. Details of this assignment will be discussed in class. At minimum, you will be expected to find three additional peer-reviewed articles on the topic. Your report should summarize across these works (e.g., Who are important thought leaders and researchers/scholars in the area? What key perspectives, theories, or models are receiving attention? What seem to be shared concerns and priorities? Are there any important debates and/or disagreements? What important contributions to our knowledge are these works making?)

Five-page biography of a leading researcher/scholar:
This is a 5-page double-spaced APA-formatted assignment. You are to investigate any leading scholar/researcher of your choice and write a biography that includes your scholar’s educational history and background, dissertation topic and major advisor, employment history and background, primary research areas, major research contributions, important/major publications, a short summary of one of the major publications, teaching areas, and anything else that is interesting or unique about your chosen researcher. You are expected to submit TWO additional academic articles or book chapters written by your chosen scholar/researcher.

Discussion leader:
You will lead discussions on the assigned readings for specific topics. To effectively lead discussions, you should be familiar with the assigned readings. Come prepared with questions that facilitate critical thinking and discussion about each reading (main points, interesting points, strengths, weaknesses, etc) and the readings as a whole (comparisons, points of contention, recurring ideas, central concerns).

Participation in Class Discussions:
Your participation in and contributions to class discussions matter. You can earn points for consistent, meaningful, and respectful participation.

Grading:
This is a letter-graded course: A, B, C, D, or F.

POLICIES AND NOTICES

Attendance/Grade Policy

Attendance and participation in interaction, individual assignments, group exercises, simulations, role playing, etc. are valuable aspects of any course because much of the learning comes from discussions in class with other students. It is expected that you attend all classes and be on time except for excused emergencies.

Excused absences are given for professor mandated activities or legally required activities such as emergencies or military assignments. It is the policy of the University to excuse absences of students that result from religious observances and to provide without penalty for the rescheduling of examinations and additional required class work that may fall on religious holidays. Unavoidable personal emergencies, including (but not limited to) serious illness; delays in getting to class because of accidents, etc.; deaths and funerals, and hazardous road conditions will be excused.

If you are obtaining financial assistance (TA, STAP, FA, VA, Scholarship, etc.) to pay all or part of your tuition cost, you must follow your funding agency/institution's policy regarding “I” (Incomplete) grades unless the timeline is longer than what the University policy allows then you must adhere to the University policy. Students who receive Financial Aid must resolve/complete any “I” (Incomplete) grades by the end of the term or he/she may be placed on “financial aid probation.” If the “I” grade is not resolved/completed by the end of the following term, the student’s Financial Aid may be suspended make the student ineligible for further Financial Aid.

Students are responsible for meeting the guidelines of Tuition Assistance and Veterans Assistance. See the education counselor at your local education center for a complete description of your TA or VA requirements.

Academic Integrity and Student Conduct

Academic integrity means honesty and responsibility in scholarship. Academic assignments exist to help students learn; grades exist to show how fully this goal is attained. Therefore all work and all grades should result from the student's own understanding and effort.

Academic misconduct is any act which improperly affects the evaluation of a student’s academic performance or achievement. Misconduct occurs when the student either knows or reasonably should know that the act constitutes misconduct. Academic misconduct includes: cheating and using unauthorized materials on examinations and other assignments; improper collaboration, submitting the same assignment for different classes (self-plagiarism); fabrication, forgery, alteration of documents, lying, etc…in order to obtain an academic advantage; assisting others in academic misconduct; attempting to commit academic misconduct; destruction of property, hacking, etc…; intimidation and interference with integrity process; and plagiarism. All students should review the Student’s Guide to Academic Integrity at http://integrity.ou.edu/students_guide.html

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. All students should review policies regarding student conduct at http://studentconduct.ou.edu/

Accommodation Statement
