Course Objectives:

The goal of this course will be to familiarize you with some of the complex social issues that impact the human experience and that have implications for human relations. We will be examining the ways in which the larger social context impacts individuals' experiences, and vice versa. Finally, we will be analyzing the multiple dimensions that are of significance to individuals' and communities' experiences of these current problems. These include the importance of factors such as race, gender, class, culture, nation of origin, popular culture, etc. It is expected that by the end of the course you will not only be familiar with some of the issues impacting individual and social health and wellbeing, but that you will also be able to provide a thoughtful analysis of these issues

Course Outline:

Over the course of the semester you will be expected to complete all assigned reading in a timely fashion. You will additionally be expected to participate in class discussions using the discussion forum on Canvas, and you will complete reflection papers, a book review, and a final paper. The course will be divided into modules, each with its own participation assignments. In addition, you will be expected to complete two major assignments – a two-part book review and a final paper

Checking Canvas:

Regular updates and relevant information regarding the course will be posted to the "Announcements" page on Canvas. This will include module-specific information and updates. In order to ensure that you do not miss any new information of relevance to the course, you will be responsible for checking the "Announcements" page at least once each week. Additional information, links, and documentation will be posted on the "Modules" tab. Finally, all assignments are due in the relevant submission folders.

Assignments, Grading, and Due Dates:

All communication for this course will take place via Canvas.

Participation assignments:

Over the course of the semester, you will be expected to complete numerous participation assignments. These assignments will ensure that you are staying up-to-date on your reading and will allow you interact with the material. Given that this is an online course, these participation assignments are an essential aspect of the class and will provide you with an opportunity to communicate both with the instructor as well as with your classmates. Participation assignments will consist of discussion forum posts and reflection papers.

During weeks that discussion forum posts are due, you will be expected to make a posting to the relevant forum on Canvas. A framing question related to the material to be covered will be posted. You will be expected to respond to this question as well as to at least one of your classmates. Thus, your first post should be a response to the posed question, while your second post should be a respectful and insightful response to one of your classmates. The discussion forum will remain open for one week. Please see below for the relevant due dates. You will receive a grade out of 10 for each discussion post you make. You will receive a 0 for any unmade postings, and all late postings will be subject to a 50% grade reduction.

During weeks that reaction papers are due, you will be expected to prepare a brief paper in response to the assigned material. Your reaction papers should be typed using 12-pt font and standard margins and should be two to three pages long. Your paper should be written as you would any other academic paper and should be proofread and spell and grammar checked. You should consider the goal of the chapter author(s) and your reactions to their statements (do you agree or disagree and why?). You should also consider whether the author(s) changed the way you think about the topic, whether you learned something new from the article, how it fits with the rest of what we are learning, etc. The more thorough and thoughtful your paper is, the higher your grade will be. Reaction papers will receive a grade out of 10. Late papers will be subject to a 50% grade reduction.

At the end of the semester, your two lowest participation grades will be dropped.

Book review:

In addition to the weekly readings, you are expected to complete a book review of Nickel and Dime. This review will have two components. First, you are expected to participate in a class discussion regarding the book. The relevant discussion forum on Canvas will remain open for one week. During this time, you will be responsible for posting your reactions to the assigned text (in response to a provided framing question). In addition, you are expected to respond to at least two postings made by your classmates. Accordingly, you are expected to make a minimum of three postings. Please see below for the relevant due dates.

Your first posting should reflect your reactions to the assigned text. You should comment on the text, including your thoughts on how it fits in with what we are learning in class. You should also provide your own reactions to the author's experiences and comments. Finally, your responses to your classmates should include respectful agreement or disagreement with them or comments on their reflections. You will receive a score out of 10 for each posting you make, giving you a total final score out of 30 for each discussion topic. Thoughtful postings that reflect independent and critical thought will receive the highest scores. You will receive a 0 for any unmade postings, and all late postings will be subject to a 50% grade reduction.

You will additionally be expected to complete a written review of the text. Your book review should be at least five double-spaced pages in length, should conform to conventional formatting instructions, and should follow correct APA formatting guidelines. You are not required to use outside sources in your review. Rather, I am interested in your perspective. However, if you do include outside sources, these should be cited appropriately.

In preparing your review I would like for you to provide a critical analysis of the assigned text. I would like you to evaluate the ways in which it relates to the concepts that we have covered in class while providing your personal reflections on the author and her experiences. This will be your opportunity to respond to the author. Your book review papers will receive a grade out of 100, with the most thorough and thoughtful reviews receiving the highest grades. Late reviews will receive an automatic 10-point deduction for each day that the paper is late.

Additional instructions will be posted on Canvas closer to the time that the review is due.

Final papers:

You will need to submit a final paper discussing a current problem of your choice (you are responsible for identifying an issue that you consider to be a current problem for human relations). You may select an issue we covered in class or you may select an entirely new topic (e.g., teenage drug use, urban homelessness, women’s mental health, the school experience of immigrant children, etc.). It is highly recommended that you select an aspect of a problem to discuss; this will make your paper more manageable (e.g., rather than looking just at drug use in general, look at teenage drug use or discuss urban homelessness, etc.) You will need to submit your topic to me for approval by the designated date and time. If you do not submit a topic on time, 10 points will automatically be deducted from your final paper grade.

Your paper should include an overview of the problem that you have selected. You should explain the various dimensions of the problem (e.g., the ways that race, class, gender, culture, etc. interact when considering this problem) and the reasons why you have selected it as a current problem for human relations. In addition, you should provide an analysis of some of the ways in which the problem can be addressed (what has already been done, why has this worked or not worked, what do you think should be done to address the problem and why, etc.?). You need to use at least seven sources for your paper, of which no more than two may be reports published by governmental, non-governmental, and/or non-profit organizations. The remainder of your sources needs to be scholarly books and/or journal articles. Only one of these may be a chapter we covered in class. Your paper should be approximately seven to ten pages long and should be typed, double-spaced, and should use conventional margins. Finally, your paper needs to conform to APA formatting guidelines.

Your paper will receive a grade out of 100. Late papers will receive an automatic 10-point deduction for each day the paper is late. Final grades will be assessed in the following manner: 10 points for stylistic considerations (correct use of APA format, font, margins, page length, etc.); 60 points for content (the thoroughness of your discussion of the problem you selected, the completeness of your analysis of potential solutions to the problem, etc.); 30 points for critical thinking (the degree to which you provide a thoughtful analysis of the dimensions of the problem, the thoughtfulness of your discussion of potential solutions to the problem, etc.)

More details regarding your final papers will be posted to Canvas closer to the due date.

Academic Integrity and Student Conduct

Academic integrity means honesty and responsibility in scholarship. Academic assignments exist to help students learn; grades exist to show how fully this goal is attained. Therefore all work and all grades should result from the student's own understanding and effort.

Academic misconduct is any act which improperly affects the evaluation of a student's academic performance or achievement. Misconduct occurs when the student either knows or reasonably should know that the act constitutes misconduct. Academic misconduct includes: cheating and using unauthorized materials on examinations and other assignments; improper collaboration, submitting the same assignment for different classes (self-plagiarism); fabrication, forgery, alteration of documents, lying, etc...in order to obtain an academic advantage; assisting others in academic misconduct; attempting to commit academic misconduct; destruction of property, hacking, etc...; intimidation and interference with integrity process; and plagiarism. All students should review the Student's Guide to Academic Integrity at http://integrity.ou.edu/students_guide.html

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. All students should review policies regarding student conduct at <http://studentconduct.ou.edu/>
