PSC 5550-221: Problems in International Relations: Russian Politics

Course Description:
This course provides a graduate-level introduction to important substantive and theoretical issues in the comparative study of Russian politics. The course is designed for students with no prior exposure to Russian politics. The readings and seminar discussions will focus on developing a substantive understanding of contemporary Russian politics while establishing its broader theoretical relevance in comparison to other regimes in the post-Soviet and post-communist world.

Assignments, Grading and Due Dates:
Material for each session should be read prior to class meetings. Materials should be read in the order listed. Students are encouraged to start reading early. In addition to the readings and seminar participation (20%), there are three written assignments for this course: two short essays (20% each) and one long essay (40%).
1. The first assignment will be a short essay (~1200 words) comparing the different explanations for the collapse of the USSR in the readings by Dallin, Bunce, and Brown and considering their implications for whether post-Soviet Russia would become democratic or authoritarian. Please note: The first assignment is due one week prior to the start of the first class.

2. The second assignment will be a short essay (~1200 words) to be submitted during the week of class. The essay should identify the main arguments of select readings (two or three articles) and raise issues to be discussed in class. The readings will be allocated once enrollment is set and assignments will be made before the start of class meetings. Each essay will be due prior to the start of class for the assigned day, though you may start work on them in advance.

3. The third assignment will be a long essay (~3000 words) that will be due two weeks after the end of class. Substantial research beyond the course materials is required. The topic will be set on the last day of the seminar.

Grading:

This is a letter-graded course: A, B, C, D, or F.

Attendance/Grade Policy

Attendance and participation in interaction, individual assignments, group exercises, simulations, role playing, etc. are valuable aspects of any course because much of the learning comes from discussions in class with other students. It is expected that you attend all classes and be on time except for excused emergencies.

Excused absences are given for professor mandated activities or legally required activities such as emergencies or military assignments. It is the policy of the University to excuse absences of students that result from religious observances and to provide without penalty for the rescheduling of examinations and additional required class work that may fall on religious holidays. Unavoidable personal emergencies, including (but not limited to) serious illness; delays in getting to class because of accidents, etc.; deaths and funerals, and hazardous road conditions will be excused.

If you are obtaining financial assistance (TA, STAP, FA, VA, Scholarship, etc.) to pay all or part of your tuition cost, you must follow your funding agency/institution’s policy regarding “I” (Incomplete) grades unless the timeline is longer than what the University policy allows then you must adhere to the University policy. Students who receive Financial Aid must resolve/complete any “I” (Incomplete) grades by the end of the term or he/she may be placed on “financial aid probation.” If the “I” grade is not resolved/completed by the end of the following term, the student’s Financial Aid may be suspended make the student ineligible for further Financial Aid.

Students are responsible for meeting the guidelines of Tuition Assistance and Veterans Assistance. See the education counselor at your local education center for a complete description of your TA or VA requirements.

Academic Integrity and Student Conduct

Academic integrity means honesty and responsibility in scholarship. Academic assignments exist to help students learn; grades exist to show how fully this goal is attained. Therefore all work and all grades should result from the student's own understanding and effort.

Academic misconduct is any act which improperly affects the evaluation of a student’s academic performance or achievement. Misconduct occurs when the student either knows or reasonably should know that the act constitutes misconduct. Academic misconduct includes: cheating and using unauthorized materials on examinations and other assignments; improper collaboration, submitting the same assignment for different classes (self-plagiarism); fabrication, forgery, alteration of documents, lying, etc…in order to obtain an academic advantage; assisting others in academic misconduct; attempting to commit academic misconduct; destruction of property, hacking, etc…; intimidation and interference with integrity process; and plagiarism. All students should review the Student’s Guide to Academic Integrity at http://integrity.ou.edu/students_guide.html.

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. All students should review policies regarding student conduct at http://studentconduct.ou.edu/.
