Course Objectives:

The main goals of this course are to enable you to understand and critically assess communication and social science research. More specifically, by the end of this course it is expected that you:

- Will understand the core processes involved in social scientific research.
- Will understand the decision-making process that occurs at each step in the research process, and the advantages, compromises, and drawbacks associated with such decisions.
- Will be able to design and test basic research questions and hypotheses using appropriate statistical procedures.
- Will be able to appreciate and assess critically a social science project.

Assignments, Grading and Due Dates:

In-class activities (40% of course grade):

Students are expected to have read the textbook chapters and articles prior to the beginning of the course. Students should take detailed notes of the material in each chapter and bring to class questions they may have about the various concepts explained.

Students are also expected to attend all classes and come to class prepared. A series of exercises/activities and discussion questions will be completed during every class meeting and will count towards students’ final grade.
On the first day of class, students should turn in a typed, double-spaced 1-2-page essay that explains an idea for a quantitative study. Students should think about a phenomenon that interests them (e.g., whether culture affects arguing behaviors; whether men and women differ in their arguing behaviors; whether one’s training in argumentation improves one’s competence while arguing with others) and what they want to study, specifically, about it. Then, students should write up a description of this idea in essay format. Scholarly or non-scholarly sources are not required but can be used to support one’s explanations. Feel free to contact the instructor before class with any questions about this assignment.

Research article critique (30% of course grade):

This assignment asks you to compare two quantitative research studies published in a communication or communication-related journal in the past five years. The instructor will give examples during class of articles that can work for the purpose of this critique. Your comparison of the articles should first describe the two studies, and then compare their strengths and weaknesses, based on the criteria discussed throughout the course.

The paper should be between 12 and 15 pages (excluding the cover page and references) and follow APA 6th edition in respect to formatting, writing, and citations.

The paper should be submitted electronically on Canvas under the Research critiques assignment no later than the date specified. Late assignments may incur a grade deduction, at the instructor’s discretion. The instructor will return feedback electronically via Canvas.

Papers will be graded based on their content, structure, and writing. Further details about how to write a successful research critique will be discussed in class.

Final Examination (30% of course grade):

The final examination will take place during the last class session. Exam questions will be drawn from the required texts from the course, lectures, class discussions, and exercises/activities. Students are allowed to have a one-page (8.5” x 11”) front-to-back crib sheet for the exam.

Grading:

This is a letter-graded course: A (90%-100%), B (80%-89%), C (70%-79%), D (60%-69%), or F (<60%).

POLICIES AND NOTICES

Attendance/Grade Policy

Attendance and participation in interaction, individual assignments, group exercises, simulations, role playing, etc. are valuable aspects of any course because much of the learning comes from discussions in class with other students. It is expected that you attend all classes and be on time except for excused emergencies.

Excused absences are given for professor mandated activities or legally required activities such as emergencies or military assignments. It is the policy of the University to excuse absences of students that result from religious observances and to provide without penalty for the rescheduling of examinations and additional required class work that may fall on religious holidays. Unavoidable personal emergencies, including (but not limited to) serious illness; delays in getting to class because of accidents, etc.; deaths and funerals, and hazardous road conditions will be excused.

If you are obtaining financial assistance (TA, STAP, FA, VA, Scholarship, etc.) to pay all or part of your tuition cost, you must follow your funding agency/institution’s policy regarding “I” (Incomplete) grades unless the timeline is longer than what the University policy allows then you must adhere to the University policy. Students who receive Financial Aid must resolve/complete any “I” (Incomplete) grades by the end of the term or he/she may be placed on “financial aid probation.” If the “I” grade is not resolved/completed by the end of the following term, the student’s Financial Aid may be suspended make the student ineligible for further Financial Aid.

Students are responsible for meeting the guidelines of Tuition Assistance and Veterans Assistance. See the education counselor at your local education center for a complete description of your TA or VA requirements.

Academic Integrity and Student Conduct

Academic integrity means honesty and responsibility in scholarship. Academic assignments exist to help students learn; grades exist to show how fully this goal is attained. Therefore, all work and all grades should result from the student's own understanding and effort.

Academic misconduct is any act which improperly affects the evaluation of a student’s academic performance or achievement. Misconduct occurs when the student either knows or reasonably should know that the act constitutes misconduct. Academic misconduct includes: cheating and using unauthorized materials on examinations and other assignments; improper collaboration, submitting the same assignment for different classes (self-plagiarism); fabrication, forgery, alteration of documents, lying, etc…in order to obtain an academic advantage; assisting others in academic misconduct; attempting to commit academic misconduct; destruction of property, hacking, etc…; intimidation and interference with integrity process; and plagiarism. All students should review the Student’s Guide to Academic Integrity at http://integrity.ou.edu/students_guide.html

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. All students should review policies regarding student conduct at http://studentconduct.ou.edu/

Accommodation Statement

The University of Oklahoma is committed to making its activities as accessible as possible. For accommodations on the basis of disability, please contact your local OU Site Director.

Adjustment for Pregnancy/Childbirth-Related Issues

Should you need modifications or adjustments to your course requirements because of documented pregnancy-related or childbirth-related issues, please contact me as soon as possible to discuss. Generally, modifications will be made where medically necessary and similar in scope to accommodations based on temporary disability. Please see http://www.ou.edu/content/eoo/faqs/pregnancy-faqs.html.
Title IX Resources

For any concerns regarding gender-based discrimination, sexual harassment, sexual misconduct, stalking, or intimate partner violence, the University offers a variety of resources, including advocates on-call 24/7, counseling services, mutual no-contact orders, scheduling adjustments, and disciplinary sanctions against the perpetrator. Please contact the Sexual Misconduct Office at smo@ou.edu or (405) 325-2215 (8-5), or the Sexual Assault Response Team at (405) 615-0013 (24/7) to report an incident. To learn more about Title IX, please visit the Institutional Equity Office’s website at http://www.ou.edu/content/eoo.html

Course Policies

Advanced Programs policy is to order books in paperback if available. Courses, dates, and professors are subject to change. Please check with your OU Site Director. Students should retain a copy of any assignments that are mailed to the professor for the course. Advanced Programs does not provide duplicating services or office supplies.
